

COMMENTS ON THE UNFPA DRAFT COUNTRY PROGRAMME DOCUMENT FOR JORDAN

Second regular session 2022

Comments by the United States of America	UNFPA country/regional office response to comments
Overall, we found the country programme document to be methodological and thorough. We appreciate the excellent synopsis of the situation in Jordan and the relevant and reasonable objectives and targets.	The comment is well noted and much appreciated.
While we welcome the inclusion of climate change, we found the references in the document to be perfunctory, and encourage UNFPA to take a more integrated approach, as family planning and family size relate directly to climate and the environment.	The comment is well noted. The elaboration of the work on climate change will take place through the development of work plans and joint programmes with other UN agencies, guided by the UNSDCF. The specific interventions and strategies will be based upon existing data and research to be led by UNFPA to further understand and respond effectively the intersectionality between SRH (including family planning and family size) and climate change in Jordan.
