United Nations Population Award

The United Nations General Assembly established the United Nations Population Award in resolution 36/201 on 17 December 1981. The Award is presented annually to an individual or individuals, or to an institution or institutions, or to any combination thereof, for the most outstanding contribution to the awareness of population questions or to their solutions.

The Committee for the United Nations Population Award selects the laureates of the Award. The Committee is composed of ten representatives of Members States of the United Nations (Antigua and Barbuda, Bangladesh, Benin, Islamic Republic of the Gambia, Ghana, Haiti, Islamic Republic of Iran, Israel, Poland and Paraguay) elected by the Economic and Social Council for a term of three years (2016-2018).

Laureates of the 2018 Award

1. Individual

Dr. Sir Prince Ramsey was selected in recognition of his outstanding contribution to improving health care for thousands of people in the disadvantaged communities of his twin-island nation of Antigua and Barbuda. As District Medical Officer of St John's, he not only treated thousands of citizens in disadvantaged communities, but also served as a volunteer lecturer for student nurses and midwives at the Antigua Planned Parenthood Association, the Caribbean Family Planning Affiliation, the Red Cross Society and the St. John's Ambulance Society for three decades.

Dr. Ramsey became a prominent champion of the HIV/AIDS cause as an expert on the epidemic, as an advocate, and also as a pioneer in the fight against Mother-to-Child Transmission of HIV. Due to his life-saving work, the World Health Organization recognized Antigua and Barbuda as one of the six Caribbean countries for their achievement of eliminating mother-to-child transmission of HIV and Syphilis in 2017.

2. Institution

(a) Save A Child's Heart, an Israeli-based humanitarian organization, was selected for its remarkable work as a world leader in providing life-saving cardiac surgery for children from developing countries, regardless of race, nationality or financial status. Established in 1996, Save A Child's Heart goal is to improve the health and welfare of all children, in particular those born with congenital heart disease.

While providing life-saving heart surgeries and follow-up care, Save A Child's Heart simultaneously creates centres of medical competence in developing countries that enable local physicians, trained by Save A Child's Heart, to treat their patients from their own communities. To date, Save A Child's Heart has saved the lives of 4,400 children, from 55 developing countries in Africa, South America, Europe, Asia and throughout the Middle East.

(b) The Guttmacher Institute was selected for its achievements as a leading research and policy organization committed to advancing sexual and reproductive health and rights in the United States and globally. Within this field, the Institute has focused on issues as diverse as fertility intentions, contraceptive use and services, adolescent sexual and reproductive health, pregnancy outcomes, abortion incidence and safety as well as maternal and newborn health, HIV/AIDS and men's sexual and reproductive health. In all these areas, the Institute has played a pivotal role in filling a vital niche as a credible source of actionable, high- quality scientific research and as a centre of excellence in translating evidence into policy change.
